Submission Guidelines:

Each issue of Optimized Prescribing with Seniors will take one of two approaches:

1. A clinical question with a brief synopsis of the evidence to provide guidance around use of a particular type of medication.
or
2. A summary approach to the management of more complex issues in medication management.

Articles are evidence-informed, concise and fully referenced. Most importantly, they aim to provide practical support for you in your appropriate prescribing with seniors.

Potential topics to be addressed may include such issues as:

- Appropriate use of antipsychotics.
- Recognition of anticholinergic burden.
- A short series on treatment targets in the frail elderly.
- A practical approach to stopping medications.
- Tips to improve adherence.

Because OPS is for you, we need your questions and suggestions. Is there a particular issue you would like to see addressed? Do you see a scenario frequently present in your office and want to know an ideal yet practical approach to management? Uncertain about the role of the “latest and greatest” new drug? Ask us! Email ideas and suggestions to webmaster@albertadoctors.org.
