

We care about you. And your health.

That's why we want to ask you some questions about your finances.

Why does this matter?

People experiencing financial strain can have a lower level of health than the average person. It is a risk factor for many health conditions such as diabetes, cancer, mental health and heart disease. Income supports are available to many people, yet they are often unaware or have difficulty accessing them.

If you or someone you care about is experiencing financial strain, talk to your family doctor or health team because they can help.

We have a few questions about your finances, housing and social supports that will help your family doctor and health team connect you to the right resources.

Thank you for your participation!
